When D. J. With the addition of more clubs the boxers have raised their prices until it is a joke to try and do business with them on a sensible basis. Tom McCarey, the former Los Angeles promoter, tried to hook up here, but after putting in a couple of months' time without accomplishing anything, he gave up the idea and left for the east, where he hoped to establish the twenty-round game in establish the twenty-round game in Connecticut. "I am now trying to bring about a real middleweight champion. I have offered to stage an elimination tournament between the stars Clabby, Dillon, Ahearn and McGoorty, the winner to meet Mike Gibbons for the title. At present I consider Clabby the man best entitled to the championship, and if the others want a crack at it they can take a chance against him over the marathon route." It is understood that Promoter Tortorich will build a new arena inside the city next fall, where big and small fights can be held and over any distance up to twenty rounds.

The prospects of a McFarland-Gibbons match in the near future has started the boxing fans all over the country speculating on the probable result. It will be the meeting of the two masters of the fistic art and a treat should be in store for the fans. It is probable that the match will take place in Milwaukee, although New York and Denver have made bids for it. The Auditorium, in Milwaukee, is the one place to hold the match, as it will permit the Chicago friends of McFarland, and those of Minneapolis and St. Paul, who favor Mike, to attend and root for their favorites. The Auditorium will be so arranged, in the event it is held there, to accommodate fully 1,000 more people, so that the attendance and receipts will no doubt exceed those of the Wolgast-Ritchie match considerably. The Cream City A. C. has made a big bid for the match, 75 per cent of the gross, including the state tax, and it is expected that the boxers, will agree, as the club has positively refused to go beyond those figures. If any other club wants to bid higher it is welcome to the match, according to the promoters of the Auditorium Club.

These pigeons leave in a chartered car for Ashburne, Va., where they will be liberated by the club's official convoyer. Each succeeding week the distance will be increased, and April 25 and the first race will be flown from Cumberland, Md.

Racing pigeons is becoming one of the most popular sports not only in Washington, but throughout the country. The American Racing Pigeon Union, which was organized in Washington November 10, 1910, by local fanciers, has representation now in nearly every state of the Union, also in Vancouver, Victoria, Oshawa, Toronto and other Canadian cities.

The racing pigeon has sprung into public notice lately through the efficient service being rendered for scouting purposes in the present European conflict. Belgium and France are using them for messenger service for the heroes in the trenches; Germany's activities lie with their Zeppelin and Taubes, while England uses them in connection with its maritime and aerial service.

special Dispatch to The Star.

Len Rowlands, the Milwaukee welterweight, seems to have made a hit down here with the fans. Len met Young Denny, considered the best of the welf-terweights, and won all the way. His work was much better than he has displayed in Milwaukee the past winter, and indicates that the boy has recovered the use of his left hand, which seemed to have been lost in most of his battles. The promoters here are now trying to bring a good welterweight for Rowlands to meet in a long-distance contest.

Red Dolan, a little red-topped featherweight, is making a hit here. He is a real Mick, and his name is Dolan, and he was raised here. He has been fighting two years and in that time has had about twenty fights, winning all of them and scoring some knockouts over fairly good boys. He carries a real kick in either hand and is also clever. It is likely that Cal Delaney, the Cleveland featherweight, who recently fought George Chaney and Matt Brock, will be brought down here to tackle Dolan. If he can whip Delaney the will be a sure enough prospect to send against Chaney, and later Kilbane. Red is about next to Joe Mandot in popular favor.
